COAST TARPON RODEO OPENS AT PASS THURSDAY

Pass Christian, Miss., August 5.—John M. Parker, Jr., of New Orleans, hooked, gaffed and safely brought to captivity the first tarpon of the national tournament, which opened today at the famous tarpon hole, seven miles out from Pass Christian, conquering the 120-pound fish after a series of eleven rushing leaps in a contest that lasted from 1:15 to 2:30 o'clock this afternoon.

Young Parker fought the big silver fish, while his father, former Governor John M. Parker, of Louisiana, rowed the skiff from which they fished.

A released message earlier in the day had given credit for the first catch to Robert Ewing, Jr., another Orleanian, but Ewing, up to a late hour today, had failed to hook a big one.

He was first man in last year's tournament.

The arduor of the fishermen was dampened in mid-afternoon by a heavy rain and wind squall that swept Mississippi Sound, but clearing skies followed and a large part of the tarpon fleet elected to ride at anchor through the night in the neighborhood of the fishing ground.

Parker's tarpon was caught near the mouth of Creole Gap, with an 18-pound test line and a 10-ounce cane pole.

Special Sea Coast Echo.

A. & M. College, Miss., August 3.—Twelve hundred club boys and club girls gathered at the A. & M. College the last week in July for their annual 4-H. Club Congress. These boys and girls earned the right to attend by turning in records of outstanding achievement. There are 30,000 boys and 20,000 girls enrolled in club work in the State. From this number 1,200, the maximum number that can be accommodated at the College, were selected to attend the Annual Congress.

It is an inspiring spectacle to see those boys and girls at work and at play. They are doing their part in a way infinitely worth while, and are not afraid to work. The boys know how to plow and hoe; they know how to sow and reap and can milk a cow. The girls can cook, sew and can do all the other domestic duties. Above all, both boys and girls take pride in their work; they dignify what are sometimes termed menial tasks.

The extension department is rendered more efficient by the fact that the State is providing practical and wholesome training for the 21,000 boys and girls under its supervision. More important than teaching them the manual arts and trades is arousing in them a happy home-life, imbuing them with the spirit of good citizenship, which is the most laudable purpose any individual or organization can possibly have.

All freshmen entering the A. & M. College this fall are expected to report September 10, one week before the formal opening. This policy was adopted by the College in order that new men may be made acquainted with the institution before class work begins. During the week officials and faculty members will assist them in selecting and arranging their course of study. Daily tours to the various departments will be a part of the program. Free entertainment will also be provided. Every new man will have a faculty adviser whom he can choose or have assigned as he desires. This adviser will not only be glad to help him with college problems, but will be equally anxious to help him with all his personal matters in regard to which he feels the need for sympathetic counsel.

A bulletin on Common Forestry Trees of Mississippi was recently issued by the extension department. This publication, as the title suggests, treats of the more common forest trees of the State, briefly describing each. It is well written and fittingly illustrated. W. R. Mattoon, of the forestry division of the United States department of agriculture, and J. M. Beal, of the botany department of the A. & M. College, prepared the bulletin.

This bulletin will be mailed free of charge to anyone requesting it. Write to the Service Bureau for Extension, Bulletin No. 32.

—A press message from Blount says that city has more summer visitors from this season than heretofore and that every house available is occupied and there are more than the four major hotels of the city carry more names than at any other time of this season of the year. This is like might be said of Bay St. Louis. Just now it is noted there is a daily increase, decidedly marked over the year when many came and left for the reason of deplorable condition of the public streets. Hard curving roads ways over the city is causing a loss of advertising card and many more cars are noted daily.

MEMORIAL TO "BIG SIX."
Christy Mathewson, affectionately known as "Big Six," who died last year, was perhaps the most admired and best loved player who ever graced a baseball diamond. He was esteemed as highly for his sterling character as for his consummate skill. It is most fitting that his memory is to be honored by the establishment of the Christy Mathewson Memorial Fund.

Sponsored by organized baseball and the American Legion, an organization has been formed for the purpose of "perpetuating the name of Christy Mathewson by a fund to be used to aid the sick and needy who come to Saranac Lake for treatment from all States of the Union, and by the establishment of a Mathewson Memorial Club house for the use of World War veterans."

Mathewson died at Saranac Lake, N. Y., after a brave fight against tuberculosis, induced by his having been passed during the war. There he was an active member of Mathewson Post of the Legion, and was instrumental in establishing a veterans club and welfare fund. The memorial will carry on more extensively the philanthropic work begun by him.

The fund will be raised through benefit games by big league teams and by contributions from local artists and others. At the first of these games there was a challenge to the players to play for the fund.

In their case an effort is being made to render assistance through a $10,000,000 loan to be raised under the auspices of the League of Nations, which has already aided Greek refugees to some extent.

This loan, if arranged, will only provide a rough house, some seed, a cow, one-half share in a plow and a cart, and the fourth share in a barrow for each family, with some provisions to aid them while a crop is being made.

ELECTION NEXT TUESDAY

On Tuesday next, August 10, an important election will be held over Hancock county to decide a majority of the registered vote whether a proposed bond issue for $1,250,000 shall be authorized.

This election is necessary to give authority for the issuance of the bonds. Not that this amount will be absorbed all at one time for the specific improvement, but in order for authority solely. So much as there is of necessity for the building of road protection in parts fronting the city of Bay St. Louis and the entire Waveland front, will be issued, from time to time, and carry on the work over the territory stated. It will require $800,000.00 of the sum voted.

This amount to be expended is limited for the present, justified by the present gasoline income tax and returns from license tags as made to the State. Part of the latter will be returned to this county on a basis of equal pro rata share, distributed to 82 counties. Last year Hancock county paid the State for tag licenses $21,000; by the pro rata share over the State Hancock received in return and as its share $22,000.00.

Whether the election carries or not, the gasoline tax will prevail just the same. A possible addition of 2 cents put on by the county of Hancock will be levied, according to law, and the funds will be used for road protection, possibly not so imperative and momentous as at present for Bay St. Louis, Waveland and contiguous territory.

In order that we may retain this vast tax fund and it be used in Beat 5, producing the bulk of taxes, and certainly entitled to consideration for the reason Waveland and Bay St. Louis are so urgently in need of protection from threatening destruction from warring elements, it behooves one and all, if they will, to vote for the carrying of the election. There seems no alternative. It is evident we are going to pay the gasoline tax just the same. Why not use it at home?

An election now carrying authority for a bond issue of $1,250,000, to be refunded by State and county gasoline taxation, will be nothing else but a contract with the State which no future Legislature may repudiate by a change of laws. There is no doubt future deliberative bodies at the capital will seek to divert gasoline tax monies, now for road protection work, to other and divers purposes over the State. The bill under which the law operates was primarily created for Harrison and later more specifically for Hancock county's benefit.

We must act for the present to save ourselves from the dangerous possibilities of the future. A vote for the bond issue next Tuesday will save the money for us and give permanent protection to life and property where it is urgently needed.

BREAKDOWN OF LAW.

At the recent annual meeting of the American Bar Association in Denver, it was openly admitted by prominent members that public confidence in the courts and their administration of the law is being steadily weakened.

A report was adopted denouncing "the growing prevalence of the use of expert witnesses, with their conflicting testimony." This referred, particularly to the use of alienists in criminal cases, where experts may always be secured to testify that the accused is insane, provided he has the money to employ them.

As a matter of fact, lawyers in convention very frequently criticize the prevailing method of criminal procedure, but so far they have done very little to correct it.

Legislators are also to blame for the present state of affairs, but as most legislators are lawyers the responsibility still rests almost wholly upon the legal profession.

By the passage of innumerable laws regulating everything under the sun, and imposing upon peace officers the task of enforcing trivial and often foolish statutes, the perpetrators of major crimes such as murder and robbery, have all the better chance to escape punishment. If more attention were given to the prevention and punishment of these serious offenses, it might be possible to reduce their number.

The Prince of Wales recently had a graceful reminder of his South American tour. While attending a civic reception at Hempstead, England, two young girls attending a local school stepped forward to greet him, and presented a pretty bouquet bearing the following note: "We, two sisters, one born at Buenos Aires and the other at Valparaiso (Chile), offer in the name of the schoolgirls of these two countries, this small bouquet as a token to record the occasion of your visit to them."

Cardinal Camacho, primate of Spain, returning from the Barchinon Congress in Chicago, was warmly questioned regarding America by King Alfonso XIII, and the primate of Spain, who had been in the United States, answered the king's questions with a full and complete knowledge of the situation.

COAST SEAWALL EXTENSION

On the basis of the report of the Hancock county Board of Supervisors, and the endorsement of the New Orleans Times-Picayune, the occasion to dwell on the election to be held in Hancock county on Tuesday, August 10th, the proposal to issue bonds for construction of a seawall along the water front at Waveland and contiguous territory.

The Times-Picayune, in its wisdom, says "Extension of the seawall system along Mississippi's beautiful Coast is so desirable, so plainly in accord with SOUND AND PROGRESSIVE POLICY (caps our own), that the Hancock county seawall-bond proposal should be adopted by an emphatically decisive vote."

The editorial follows in full: "On next Tuesday, August 10th, Hancock county, Mississippi, will vote upon a proposal to issue bonds for construction of a seawall along the water front at Waveland and contiguous territory. The project includes the rebuilding or strengthening of some sections of the Bay St. Louis seawall. Authorization of bonds to the amount of $1,250,000 is sought for the task, the issue to be serviced out of the county's gasoline tax revenues as provided by the Mississippi Legislature at its recent session. This investment in seawall security is recommended by Hancock county's Board of Supervisors, the county's Road Protection Commission, and by the Bay St. Louis Chamber of Commerce and Rotary Club.

"The time is coming, we hope, when the whole beautiful sweep of Mississippi's 'Riviera' will be adequately protected by seawalls. Harrison county's fortification of its water front is proving its best public investment, contributing more than a little to its current development. The assurance of security against occasional storm damage has added millions to its property values. The establishment of seawall defense along the Hancock county water front will prove, in our belief, an equally wise and profitable public investment.

"The storm of 1915 battered the Waveland water front, with serious property losses. The proposed protection and safeguard against recurrence of that damage will give impetus to investment and development throughout the Hancock county sector of the Coast region. Extension of the seawall system along Mississippi's beautiful Coast is so desirable, so plainly in accord with sound and progressive public policy, that the Hancock county seawall bond proposal should be adopted by an emphatically decisive vote."

LETTER FROM HARRISON COUNTY TELLS STORY.

Eustis McManus, Chancery Court, Harrison County, in letter to E. J. Gex, Tells of Seawall and Gasoline Tax.

Recently County Attorney E. J. Gex addressed a letter to Hugh McManus, in the interest of seawall and gasoline tax, asking how it was done over in Harrison county, how the people voted on two similar propositions, and asked what prosperity did the wall bring, and, if any, the amount of augmented values.

The letter is so plain, concise and emphatic, it speaks for itself, and should remove doubt. It is a remarkable letter for the interesting and marvelous story it tells and The Echo herewith presents it in full:

Guilford, Miss., July 29, 1926.
Mr. E. J. Gex, Attorney,
Bay St. Louis, Miss.

Dear Mr. Gex: I have yours of the 28th inst., with reference to proposed bond issue of your county for road protection or seawall. Harrison county is receiving from the State, which it would not otherwise get is the road protection bonds had not been issued, approximately $30,000.00 per year. This amount would have gone to the State Highway Commission if the bonds had not been issued.

We have put on an additional excise tax of 2c per gallon as authorized by Chapter 519, Laws 1924, which gives us an additional sum of approximately $90,000.00 per year. The assessed valuation of Harrison county in 1924 was $17,811,000.00 (approximately), and in 1925 it was approximately $24,800,000.00, being an increase of value of approximately $7,000,000.00. The beach property bore the brunt of the increased valuation and rightfully should.

While I do not say that if the seawall bonds had not been issued, we would have met with prosperity, yet the fact is that the bonds were voted and prosperity followed.

The first election carried by a majority of something like 300, with a strong fight against the issue, while in the second election for additional bonds it was almost unanimous. Only three precincts in the county voted a majority against the issue, while three precincts voted unanimously for same. I believe that if the people of the county were to vote for $5,000,000.00 more bonds the same would be voted.

With every good wish for the success of the issue and to yourself, I am,

Sincerely yours,
EUSTIS McMANUS.

In their case an effort is being made to render assistance through a $10,000,000 loan to be raised under the auspices of the League of Nations, which has already aided Greek refugees to some extent.

This loan, if arranged, will only provide a rough house, some seed, a cow, one-half share in a plow and a cart, and the fourth share in a barrow for each family, with some provisions to aid them while a crop is being made.

In a plea for these people before the Council of the League, the representative of Belgium declared that Belgium, which has been a victim of the war, has a right to be considered as a "people of the League."

Just one instance of this is seen in the plight of 120,000 Bulgarian refugees, who have been left homeless and landless between Balkan countries since the war. # Why The Bond Issue Election On Tuesday Should And Will Carry And Hancock County Keep Pace With The Rest Of The Coast And The Developement Of The South.

Benefits if election carries:

Will place in circulation approximately $800,000.00 in our midst.

Give employment to labor during the winter months, a good Christmas and a prosperous 1927.

Procure from the State Treasury $375,000.00 or more that this County would not receive otherwise.

Insure Hancock County the benefit of the gasoline tax for twenty-five years or more, which tax would otherwise be subjected to legislative uncertainties.

The Road Protection Commission will be perpetuated in office and relieve Bay St. Louis, Waveland and the County the burden of direct taxation, to repair and construct Sea Walls.

The Tourist, the Summer Resident and Visitors will help us to maintain our Front or Beach Road.

Increase the value of all real estate.

Increase the revenue of the County for Roads, Schools and other purposes.

A great help in making Hancock County the best place in the world to live and attractive to all those who hear of or see it.

Danger if election fails:

The loss of this cash in circulation and the inevitable injury.

Unemployed labor in our County and some empty stockings at Christmas.

The loss in actual cash of over one-third of a million dollars from the State Treasury.

The loss of a large part of the gasoline tax, which may at any time be diverted by the Legislature for other purposes, this was tried twice at the last session.

Should storms destroy or make necessary the repair or rebuilding of the present seawall, it would be necessary to issue bonds under the old method, place an ad valorem and betterment tax on property as heretofore.

Payment of the entire cost of construction, repair and maintenance of the front or beach road, while the outsider enjoys the benefit.

Property values fall back.

Decrease the revenues of the County for all purposes and a raise of taxes on property.

The loss of desirable residents and citizens, who will move to a more progressive and active Coast City.

The Gasoline Tax will take care of the Bonds, amply and fully. The Board of Supervisors on Monday went on official record as follows, assuring taxpayers not one cent of extra or direct taxation will be assessed in addition to the gasoline tax. The order on the minutes follows:

"Whereas there has arisen a doubt in the minds of some of the voters of Hancock County, as the Board of Supervisors of Hancock County expects to do in regard to the issuance of the Bonds of Hancock County for Seawall purpose, and,

"Whereas this Board at all times, though not spread on its minutes, has declared itself as favoring the issuance of only such bonds that could be retired with money from the tax collected on gas;

"Be it now, therefore, Resolved, That this Board now places itself of record, that only such an amount of Bonds will be sold for the Seawall as the tax on gas will retire and to pay interest. That this Board now pledges itself that not one cent of Bonds will be sold that will require a tax on property for the purpose of paying interest or retiring of said bonds."

WRONG PHOTO USED IN CAMPAIGN OF LONG AGO

Zealous Editor Fails to Recognize Mistake Until Published—Photograph of John Devoto Used to Depict John Sharp Williams.

Wars, whether political or otherwise, create many strange situations and bedfellows. Campaigns on the battlefield of politics, after the most careful planning, have been known to be won or lost by the development of some unforeseen incident, bordering on the ludicrous or the tragic. Participants in the stirring days of great political fights or wars, during which intense feeling surged through the populace, becoming reminiscent upon their retirement from these activities, are wont to look back over the strenuous days and recall with great gusto many of these incidents, which, mellowed with time, render them all the more worth recalling, whether the chronicler was the beneficiary or bore the brunt of the occasion.

Many ludicrous situations mark the path of every successful office holder, which occasions have been seized upon by the sagacious and nimble-witted to turn the tide and result in added popularity.

Old-time residents of Yazoo City look upon the visits here of the Hon. John Sharp Williams as opportunities for an exchange of the various topics of the day, or for the recounting of some interesting incident of the many political contests of the Senator, and the most recent visit of Mr. Williams, a day or so ago, was the occasion for reviewing one of the most interesting stories of his earlier political activities.

It was during Mr. Williams' first race for Congress in this district, and the almost-forgotten name of a former Mississippi newspaper publisher figures prominently in this particular bit of history. This publisher was an ardent admirer and supporter of the Senator, and daily besieged him for a photo, from which a newspaper etching could be used, to proudly adorn the columns of his paper. At the particular time, the Senator did not possess a suitable likeness, and at the insistent demand of the erstwhile reader-publisher, Mr. Williams visited a photographer, who at that time was located where the Sentinel building now stands.

It then became the turn of the maker of pictures to be harassed by the newspaper man, who called repeatedly for the photograph, which was at last handed him. Without minute examination, the photo was hurried to the photo engravers for a number of etchings therefrom, and these were sent broadcast to other newspapers throughout the district.

The amusement of Senator Williams, as well as his constituents and friends, can be imagined when upon receipt of a copy of the paper, the picture that confronted them, heading a long article eulogizing Mr. Williams, was not that of his facial characteristics, but those of Mr. John Devoto, whose photograph had been handed the publisher by the photographer, who became confused at the hurry-up call of the editor.

The first impulse of Mr. Williams was to seek out the editor and ask for a correction, but upon further examination of the photo, which bore the caption, "John Sharp Williams," his decision was reconsidered.

It was with a smile the Senator concluded the tale: "After closely inspecting the photograph in the paper, which appeared to be that of a good looking man, I decided that under the circumstances, I had best let the situation stand without correction. John said I owed my first election to Congress to the use of his photo, and I am not prepared to dispute him."—Yazoo Sentinel.

REMARKS

By REIGUAS.

Hoppe's It.

There's no doubt that advertising is the best medium of advertising.

What you have for sale. Advertising in newspapers, periodicals, pamphlets, billboards, etc., will get you where you desire to land—BUT, whenever you do so, go to it squarely tell the big wide world exactly what YOU have to offer and don't mix your goods with your neighbors. If what you have is located in your back yard, stick inside of that particular fenced-off area.

Our pretty neighbor, Miss Pass Christian, has lots of beautiful things for the world to see and delight in, but there are several things that she has advertised in the Echo that are somewhat of that "particular back yard." For example: Jordan River is the beautiful stream that flows in the particular back yard of Bay St. Louis, and in no possible manner is it connected with Pass Christian.

Fine Hills On-the-Bay is the beautiful estate of Mrs. J. A. Brown, which is located in Harrison county, it's GLOUCESTER to Bay St. Louis than it is to the Pass. The magnificent hotel being erected there is IN SIGHT of the "Bay," in fact, darned close to the mouth of Jordan River. How far from the Pass?

Write unto Caesar that which belongs to Caesar." Bay St. Louis does not want any more than is her own, but she does want that. The Pass goes on to advertise that she is the closest town of the Riviera to New Orleans, is it not a geographical truth that "The Bay" and Waveland are about six to ten miles nearer the Southern Metropolis?

Why should the other Coast town try to "hog" it all to the detriment of Bay St. Louis?

And Why This?

The L. & N. Railroad publishes an employees' magazine every month, the pages are usually devoted to the work and interests of the employees of the system, keeping them in touch with the things all along the line and proves very commendable indeed.

The June issue, however, digresses a bit and is called the "Mississippi Coast Number," its cover being a full page photo of the L. & N. station and park in Ocean Springs, turning its pages, one can see the pictures of the Coast towns and articles bringing forward the merits of Pass Christian, Gulfport, Biloxi and Pascagoula. There's an article published under the signature of Col. Chas. Marshall, the venerable and beloved retired superintendent of the L. & N., who resides at "The Bay." Col. Marshall's article is historic in character and relates to the road entirely.

A close search of this fine edition fails to reveal a word about Bay St. Louis. A cut of the beautiful Wisner home appears, but that is all.

The writer cannot believe that this pretty little town was PURPOSELY left out of the "Scheme of things" as obtains in the magazine, but how could it be overlooked?

Is it in the cosmic scheme that Bay St. Louis should be left out of EVERYTHING? Are we so isolated from the civilized world that it must require a bridge across the bay to connect us so that the balance of creation will awake to the fact that WE ARE HERE?

—Mrs. (Dr.) Megehee, of Bude, Miss., while visiting relatives at Gulfport a few days ago, visited Bay St. Louis, and, only with limited time, saw only a number of many friends.

Mrs. Megehee, before her marriage, was well known in this city as Miss Mary Cook, in charge for several years of the high school department, and one of the several efficient teachers helping at that time to make the school an outstanding success. Mrs. Megehee was accompanied by one of her family of three children.
